Unique audience intelligence that’s only possible with Microsoft

When someone searches for something online, it means they’re interested. It is one of the most powerful signals to inform marketing decisions.

With Microsoft audience intelligence, a customer searching on Bing for ‘Christmas gift running shoes’ can, for example, be re-targeted on MSN with the same content. By creating ads on the Microsoft Audience Network, search intent signals get your ads in front of a valuable audience, in the moment when it matters.

AMPLIFY YOUR AD STRATEGY BY...

01 Targeting your consumer with Audience Ads, Dynamic Search Ads and Product Ads, because deal seekers tend to use more non-brand terms.

02 The Microsoft Advertising Network reaches over one billion consumers on Microsoft properties like Bing and premium publishers including Yahoo! and the New York Times. Create native ad formats and search ads within the Microsoft Advertising ecosystem to help you engage your customers across the funnel.

03 With Microsoft’s powerful audience intelligence, advertisers like you can reach highly qualified audiences.

Together, Audience Network ad and Search ad exposure drives maximum performance.

Amplify your ad strategy by creating upper and lower funnel ads. This strategy boosts the likelihood of your customer converting by 11.5x.
Users who saw both Audience Network and Search ads vs. users who saw only a Retail advertisers Search ad.

- 11.5x more likely to convert
- 3.2x more likely to visit site

TIPS

1. Implement a full funnel strategy throughout the entire holiday season wherein Search and Audience Ads are live in tandem.

2. Prepare for Search ramp by activating Audience Network 45 days prior to the expected October uplift.

Center your strategy: online shoppers and deal days

Black Friday is big. Online shopping is epic.

Expect holiday green to flow in November when audiences start to convert—specifically online.

A recent Microsoft first-party survey shows that most shoppers prefer to exclusively shop online for festive season gifts. Across all markets, the percentage of customers that only shop in-store is just in the single digits.8

Contrary to what we see in Europe and the US,

40% of respondents in Australia plan to do most or all of their holiday shopping in-stores, while

26% plan to do so online.

Top conversion days

People start their search early in October but most of the conversions happen later. November and December are the months that consumers make most of their purchases.

Insight

It’s the moment of deal-obsessed shopping
It’s the moment of deal-obsessed shopping

Retail is picking up and shoppers are looking to save.

Great news—total retail growth is going back to normal. The 2023 holiday season is likely to resume more typical growth patterns of double-digit growth for e-commerce and low single-digit growth for in-store. It’s a smart strategy for advertisers to build campaigns knowing shoppers are intentional spenders in 2023. They are splurging on lower priced gifts, not expensive items. Last year saw more deal seekers and price consciousness—this will continue. Overall, people are spending conservatively and looking for deals.

Deal seeking is the new ‘shopping fever’

Looking for deals takes time and multiple searches, including generics. We analyzed the searches of people looking for deals before converting. And we measured that, within this group, a bigger proportion of users make multiple searches before converting. The search length in days is longer for ‘deal seekers’ (+33% on average). And we found out that deal seekers use more generics (+2% on average).

US data insights

Over 2/3 of US shoppers spending the most time looking for coupons and deals.1

EMEA data insights

EMEA deals-seekers spend +33% more time searching, compared to the average shopper.16

Deal seeking is the new ‘shopping fever’.

TIPS

1. Connect with your Microsoft Advertising Account Team for shopping campaign optimizations—because holiday 2023 is clearly all about prices and deals.

2. Audit your feed to ensure that you have no untargeted offers and prepare to be flexible with the Microsoft Advertising campaign budget tool.

TIPS

1. The Customer Decision Journey (CDJ) is longer, so leverage in-market audiences to reach customers early in their journey: don’t miss the start of the run.

2. To adjust to deal seeking, focus efforts on audiences (remarketing and in-market audiences), and generics (keywords and Dynamic Search Ads).

3. Allocate budget early in the peak season, using generics and DSA, Audience Campaigns and audiences in Search, but also Microsoft’s automated bidding strategies, leveraging people’s purchase intent signals.
